We have extensive knowledge in handling domestic relations matters. Our attorneys have over 50 years of experience, and understand how to deal sensitively with the trauma these situations bring to families. These matters include dissolution of marriage, parental responsibility, complex business and real estate valuations, property division, mediation, settlements, and prenuptial and post-marital agreements.

These matters can involve complex financial tax and business issues and extensive assets often held in family trusts. With experience in high-profile divorces, including professional athletes, celebrities and high-profile politicians, our attorneys draw upon the firm's expertise in tax, trusts and estates, real estate, and all matters of business planning. Our family law group is adept at resolving the most sophisticated and complex domestic matters. Our goal is to provide the best outcome for our clients while maintaining sensitivity to the families involved and respecting their privacy.
